

Japanese Journal of Religious Studies

Volume 9

1982

Nanzan Institute for Religion and Culture

18, Yamazato-cho, Showa-ku, Nagoya 466, Japan

JAPANESE JOURNAL OF RELIGIOUS STUDIES

(formerly Contemporary Religions in Japan)

Quarterly journal published by the Nanzan Institute for Religion and Culture

Editor: Jan SWYNGEDOUW

Advisory Board

ABE Yoshiya

AKAIKE Noriaki

James HEISIG

W. Michael KELSEY

NAGASAKA Gen'ichirō

David REID

TAKEUCHI Yoshinori

Jan VAN BRAGT

YANAGAWA Keiichi

1982 Subscription Rates

Individual ¥3,500 (US$15 outside Japan)

Institution ¥5,000 (US$20 outside Japan)

The Japanese Journal of Religious Studies, in quarterly issues of approximately 75 pages each, publishes articles and materials that advance interreligious understanding and further the pursuit of knowledge in the study of religion, particularly Japanese religion. One of its functions is to break through the language barriers which separate Japanese scholarship in religion from the international scene. Contributions from whichever provenance are welcome, but Japanese scholars are especially solicited to send us their materials. Responsibility for factual accuracy and for views expressed is to be attributed to the author, not necessarily to the Institute.

Nanzan Institute for Religion and Culture

18, Yamazato-cho, Showa-ku

Nagoya 466, Japan

Tel. (052) 833-6331

© Copyright 1982 by the Nanzan Institute for Religion and Culture

Printed in Japan by

Kenkyusha Printing Co., Tokyo

CONTENTS

Articles

The Academic Position of the Sociology of Religion in Modern Science	Bryan WILSON	9
Methodological Problems in the Sociology of Religion in Japan	MORIOKA Kiyomi	41
Sympathetic Understanding and Objective Observation	AKAIKE Noriaki	53
Toward an Integrated Understanding of Religion and Society: Hidden Premises in the Scientific Apparatus of the Study of Religion	ARAKI Michio	65
The Study of Religion and the Tradition of Pluralism	SHIMAZONO Susumu	77
A Riposte	Bryan WILSON	89
Religion and Literature in Japan: Some Introductory Remarks	W. Michael KELSEY	103
Myths and Tale Literature	KUROSAWA Kōzō	115
The Relationship Between the Romance and Religious Observances: Genji Monogatari as Myth	FUJII Sadakazu	127

Konjaku Monogatari-shū: Supernatural Creatures and Order	MORI Masato	147
Kamakura Accounts of Myōe Shōnin as popular Religious Hero	Robert E. MORRELL	171
The Buddhist Monk in the Jikkinshō	Ward GEDDES	199
The World View of Genpei Jōsuiki	MINOBE Shigekatsu	213
The Madonna and the Harlot: Images of Woman in Tanizaki	Paul McCARTHY	235
A Critique of "Absolute Phenomenalism"	Royall TYLER	261
From a Science of "Behavior" to a Science of "Understanding"	YANAGAWA Keiichi	285
The Study of Religion as a Human Science	SONODA Minoru	295

Reviews

EARHART, Japanese religion: Unity and diversity	David REID	313
KIYOTA, Gedatsukai: Its theory and practice	James W. HEISIG	316
WALDENFELS, Absolute nothingness: Foundations for a Buddhist-Christian dialogue	Paul F. KNITTER	318
YU, Early Buddhism and Christianity: A comparative study of the founders' authority, the community, and the discipline	James W. HEISIG	320
RAO, Mahatma Gandhi and comparative religion	Jan SWYNGEDOUW	322

Guidelines for Authors

In the preparation of manuscripts, authors are requested to observe the standards specified below. Failure to do so may prejudice manuscript acceptance.

Typing. Submit ms. typed double-spaced on standard typing paper. Double-spacing applies to every part of the ms., including indented quotations and footnotes. Do not end a typed line with a hyphen or dash.

Headings. If possible, provide section heads occasionally and subheads every page or two. Section heads stand alone on the line, begin at the left-hand margin, and are typed entirely in capital letters with no terminal period. Subheads introduce a typed line, begin at the left-hand margin, are typed in upper- and lower-case letters, underlined, and terminated with a period.

Japanese names and terms. Give Japanese names in Japanese order (surname followed by personal name). In the romanization of Japanese terms, honorifics should be omitted, capitals and hyphens minimized. Indicate long vowels with a macron (ˉ). Show syllable divisions with an apostrophe, but only if needed to avoid confusion, as in tani (谷 “valley”) and tan'i (単位 “unit”). The Japanese syllable “ん” is regularly transliterated with “n.” Unless essential to the argument, avoid the use of ideographs in the text. Use romanized forms, giving ideographs in a Glossary.

Notes. A citation note merely indicates the source of a quotation or idea. It is usually located in the text and regularly bounded by parentheses. It specifies the author's surname, the year of publication, and the page number(s), e.g.,: (Bellah 1970, pp. 54–55). If, however, a note presents supplementary data or ideas, handle it as a footnote (not backnote). A footnote is signaled in the text by a raised arabic number. Assign footnote numbers consecutively throughout the ms. Separate the footnotes from the text with a line about 2 inches (5 cm.) long drawn from the left-hand margin. Below this line, align footnote numbers with the left-hand margin of the text. Indent the left-hand margin of the body of the note, aligning it with the first letter of the first word. Footnotes may include citation notes. Whether in citation notes or footnotes, never use “op. cit.,” “loc. cit.,” “ibid.,” or the like. Specify page numbers inclusively, e.g., pp. 108–110 (not: pp. 108 ff.).

References. Every ms. that cites previously published work is to be provided with a bibliographical list headed “References.” Each reference should include the standard bibliographical information. In addition, each reference to a Japanese source is to include: (1) the kanji for the author's name, (2) the kanji for the title of the book or article cited, and (3) an English paraphrase of the title [in square brackets]. In titles, subtitles, and journal names, capitalize only the initial words, proper nouns, and adjectives deriving from proper nouns. List references alphabetically by author without distinction as to language in accordance with the following format:

Bellah, Robert N.

1965 Japan's cultural identity: Some reflections on the work of Watsuji Tetsurō. Journal of Asian studies 24: 573–594.

1970 Beyond belief: Essays on religion in a post-traditional world. New York: Harper and Row.

Hori Ichirō 堀一郎

1968a Folk religion in Japan: Continuity and change, Joseph M. Kitagawa and Alan L. Miller, eds. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

1968b Shakai fuan to minkan shinkō 社会不安と民間信仰 [Social anxiety and folk religion]. Shūkyō kenkyū 宗教研究 41: 211–245.

Biographical note. Append to the ms. a brief note with information that will enable readers to identify the author. It might include present institutional affiliation and position, previous publications, etc.

All articles accepted are subject to nonsubstantive editing. For fuller information, write for a free Style guide.

